VIVA BEAUTY

Malmaison

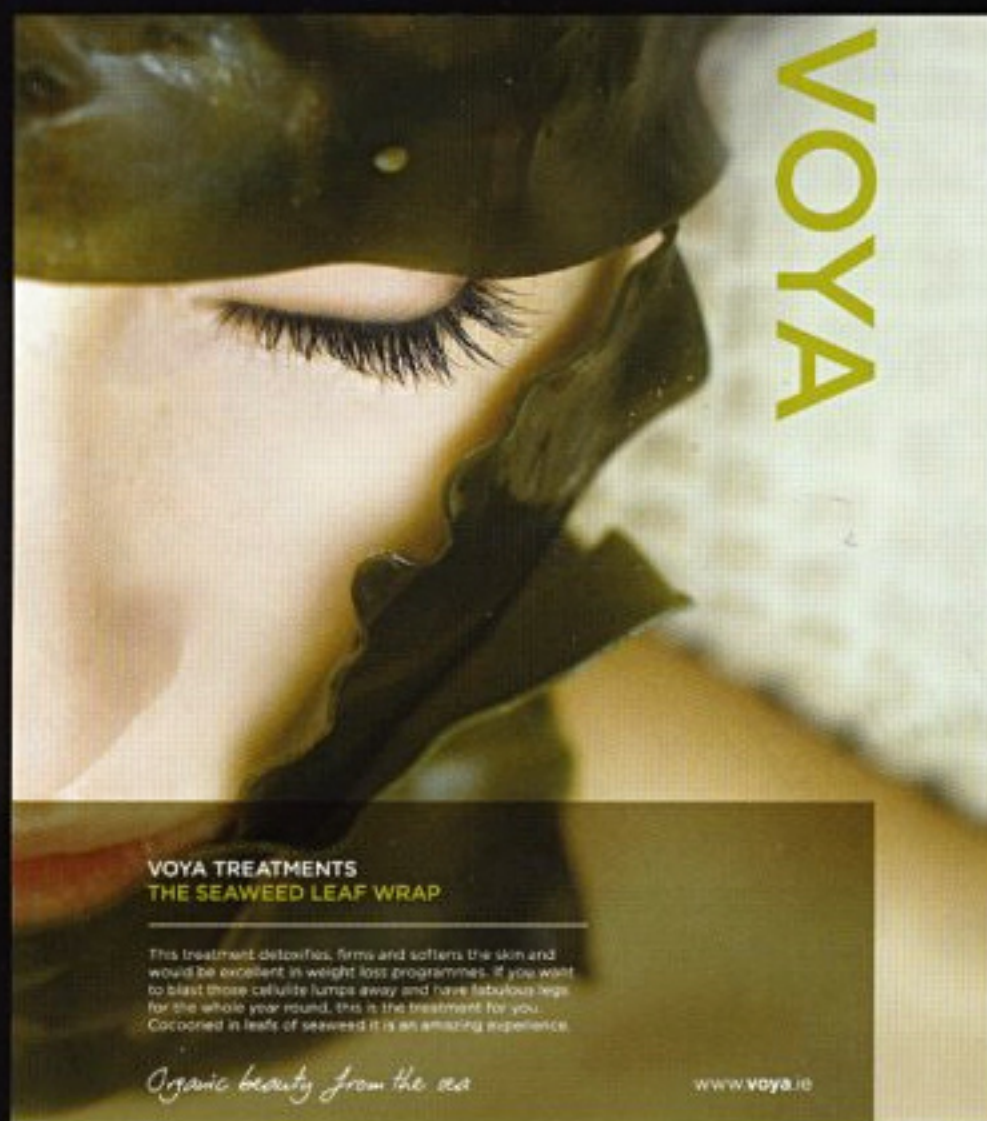

Viva Magazine recently enjoyed a self-indulgent evening of relaxation and pampering at Manchester's exclusive Le Petit Spa. Situated in the basement of Piccadilly's luxurious Malmaison Hotel, the spa acts as an inner sanctuary and safe haven where one can go to escape the stress of city living for some well deserved 'you time'. A favourite of the city's elite, the spa offers a range of treatments from the tame to the extreme, through manicures and pedicures to salt scrubs and aromatherapy massages.

Le Petit Spa's new coveted products include the organic VOYA facial and body range; an Irish and family-owned business who promote ethical and animal friendly skincare. The brand's secret weapon is to use the natural power of nature through their key ingredient seaweed, chosen due to its therapeutic properties. Under the seaweed theme, the Viva team were on hand to gladly sample the Organic Seaweed Leaf Wrap. From VOYA's organic body range, the wraps boast to provide a moisturising experience that helps fight the signs of aging and cellulite, as well as improve skin tone and elasticity. The treatment involved cocooning your legs in organically treated muslin, then wrapping them in a thermal blanket to detoxify, firm and soften the skin. Seaweed facials were also enjoyed to aid skin regeneration and hydrate.

Having been successfully converted to the seaweed religion, Viva left the spa feeling rejuvenated with a complimentary goodie bag of recyclable seaweed, ensuring we could further indulge in the treatment in the privacy of our own bathrooms. ■
